ACT

Islamic finance is now a dynamic area of the international financial services sector. As interest in a more ethical approach to finance grows, it is set to increase in importance over the next decade.

Three years on from the launch of the original certificate and after a detailed review by an independent differentiation exercise of the provision offered, CIMA concluded that the breadth and depth of the current qualification justified elevating the certificate to the level of a diploma. We also decided to change the structure of the qualification and how it is offered to reflect the changing requirements for Islamic finance in business.

for a diverse world

Introduction

Islamic finance is becoming more prominent throughout the financial institutions of the world. It is growing from a niche industry to a mainstream part of finance. It is this switch that prompted CIMA to develop the structure of the qualification.

The CIMA Qualifications in Islamic Finance consist of:

Certificate in Islamic Commercial Law

Certificate in Islamic Banking and Takaful

Certificate in Islamic Capital Markets and Instruments

Certificate in Accounting for Islamic Financial Institutions

Diploma in Islamic Finance (comprised of the four certificates)

Advanced Diploma in Islamic Finance

Who will benefit?

- All staff working in the financial services sector who would like to be a part of this dynamic industry.
- Those currently working in Islamic finance who want to hone their skills and broaden their knowledge.
- Anyone wishing to enter the financial services sector and specialise in this dynamic subject area.
- Those in the legal and accounting profession who advise on Islamic issues.
- Anyone who has an interest in Islamic finance, or companies wishing to trade in Islamic countries.

What qualification is right for you?

This revised approach allows you to choose which level of qualification is best suited to your needs.

If you need specialist knowledge in just one area of Islamic finance, then we suggest you enrol onto one of the four individual certificates. Once you complete each certificate you can continue your learning and complete other certificates through to the diploma.

If you require a more thorough and rounded understanding of Islamic finance and to feel comfortable dealing with Islamic products and institutions then we suggest you complete the diploma (formally the Certificate in Islamic Finance)

For those who wish to develop their expertise in Islamic finance and to understand its principles at a higher level, we recommend completing the Advanced Diploma in Islamic Finance. This will enable you to feel confident to apply Islamic finance principles in your professional career and reflect your commitment to your employers regarding this increasingly important area of finance.

What you will gain

CIMA Certificates in Islamic Finance

Each of the certificates allow you to focus on one or more key areas of Islamic finance.

The four certificates are:

- Certificate in Islamic Commercial Law
- Certificate in Islamic Banking and Takaful
- Certificate in Islamic Capital Markets and Instruments
- Certificate in Accounting for Islamic Financial Institutions

CIMA Diploma in Islamic Finance (CDIF)

The diploma gives you a thorough knowledge of the theory that underpins Islamic finance. In addition you will develop practical skills to progress within Islamic finance, as well as understand the regulations which govern it. Upon completion of the diploma you will be awarded the letters CDIF and will gain the following:

- extensive knowledge on the commercial law underpinning Islamic finance
- understanding of the requirements for Shari'ah compliance and the regulations that govern Islamic finance

- knowledge of the Arabic terminology which is unique to this sector of finance.

Upon completion of the diploma you can choose to progress your CIMA studies by either:

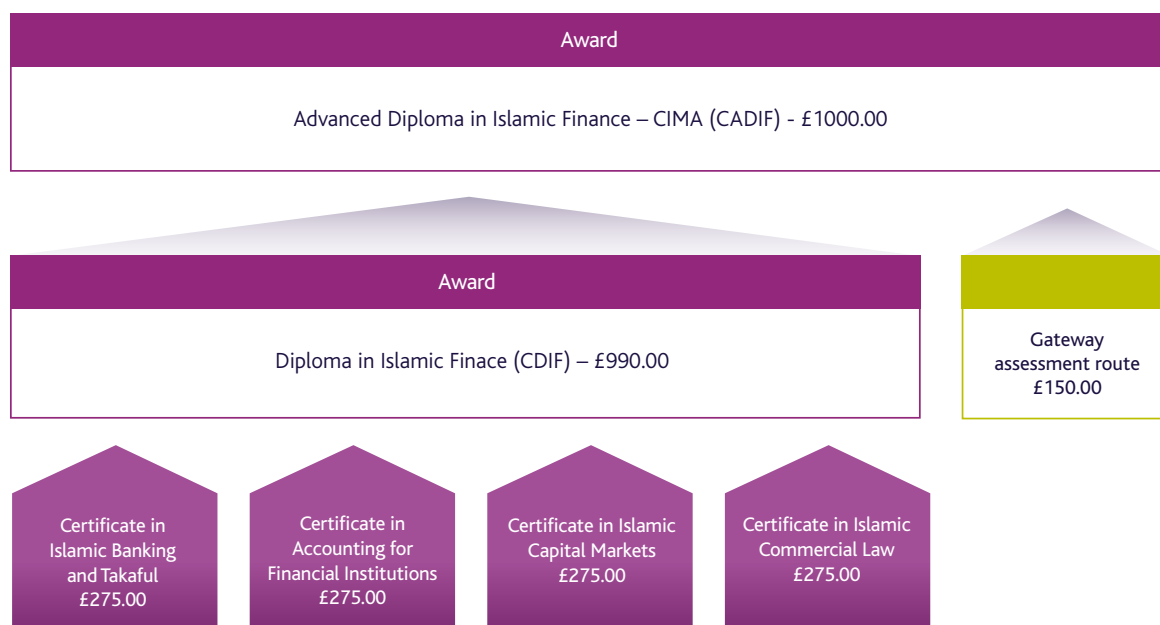

1. continuing on to complete the CIMA Advanced Diploma in Islamic Finance, or
2. transferring onto the operations level of the CIMA professional qualification.

CIMA Advanced Diploma in Islamic Finance (CADIF)

The advanced diploma provides you with:

- in-depth knowledge and understanding of the implications of Islamic finance in business strategy.
- the ability to apply Islamic finance principles to the analysis of Islamic financial products and services.
- knowledge in assessing the impact of structuring on a financial institution.
- the ability to develop innovative products and solutions for the Islamic finance services industry.

Upon completion of the advanced diploma you will be awarded the letters CADIF.

The qualification has also helped me become recognised as a Certified Islamic Financer with global recognition from an international body.

How to enrol

Certificates in Islamic Finance and Diploma in Islamic Finance

To enrol in the diploma or one of the certificates please visit the CIMA global website www.cimaglobal.com/if and click on 'Enrol now', following the on-screen instructions

Once you are enrolled, full information and study guides will be sent to you.

Entrance into the advanced diploma

This can only be achieved by:

- completion of the Diploma in Islamic Finance or
- direct entry by completion of a gateway exam.

The direct entry route is available for those who believe that they have sufficient knowledge of the subject area and do not need to complete the diploma (CDIF). Direct entrants need to successfully complete a separate entry test based around the four assessments used for the diploma.

We strongly recommend that direct entry students use the study guides provided by the diploma before you attempt the gateway assessment when wishing to enrol into the Advanced Diploma in Islamic Finance.
