Technical queries disclaimer

Neither the ACT nor any of its officers or employees nor any persons from whom it seeks advice in response to questions raised via this website can accept responsibility or liability (express or implied, contractual, tortious or otherwise) for the accuracy, correctness or timeliness of any such response.

Accordingly, users of this service should not rely on such advice but should consider taking their own independent professional advice. The views and opinions expressed in any such response are not necessarily those of the ACT or of the members of its Council. In no event should any response be viewed as investment advice. Any user of this service who requires advice on investments or securities should obtain it from an organisation duly authorised under applicable legislation.
